

Kenneth J. Abrams, MD, MBA

Dr. Ken Abrams is a Managing Director in Deloitte's Healthcare Strategy Practice and serves as Deloitte's Chief Medical Officer. With over 35 years as an anesthesiologist and healthcare consultant, Ken brings a wealth of experience from his roles in academic medical centers, integrated delivery systems, and consulting.

Recognized for his market eminence as a healthcare executive and thought leader, Dr. Abrams specializes in strategy, operations and performance improvement, and organizational transformation. His expertise has guided healthcare organizations through intricate strategic and operational changes, encompassing strategic planning, operations enhancement, organizational design, and leadership transitions.

Before joining Deloitte, Ken held significant positions at Northwell Health, including senior vice president of Clinical Operations, chief quality officer, and associate chief medical officer. His previous roles include patient safety officer and chairman of Anesthesiology at AtlantiCare, and associate professor of Anesthesiology and medical director for Perioperative Services at Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York.

An advocate for public education, Ken earned his MD from Tel Aviv University, an MBA from Zicklin School of Business/Baruch College (CUNY), and a bachelor's degree from the University of Rhode Island.

Residing in Naples, FL, with his wife, Mercy, and in Chapel Hill, NC, near his two grandsons, Ken enjoys boating, classical guitar, the performing arts, tennis, physical fitness, and the outdoors in his leisure time.